Notebook

The year may be winding down, but the design community has kicked into high gear.

Jill Neubauer is celebrating her firm's thirtieth anniversary by looking toward the future. The company was recently renamed Neubauer

Ennis Architects to reflect Neubauer's partnership with Kelly Ennis Connellan, who joined the company in 2019. Neubauer Ennis Architects will continue to focus on designing residential projects that respect the landscape, community, and environment.

LDa Architecture & Interiors and Charles Street Design have joined forces and will now operate under the LDa Architecture & Interiors name. The expanded firm represents an integrated architecture and interior design model, providing its clients with wide-ranging expertise and creative energy.

SV Design is extending its geographic reach with a new office in Winchester, Massachusetts. The architecture and interior design firm also has offices in Beverly and Chatham, offering clients easy access to the North Shore, Cape Cod, and everywhere in between.

Glass and pottery maker Simon Pearce has expanded its footprint, opening a new store—its eighth in New England—in Manchester, Vermont.

Karl Ivester, president and founder of New England Shutter Mills, added to his portfolio of heritage brands by acquiring Cape Cod Wind and Weather, located in West Harwich, Massachusetts. The company, started by Aaron and David Davis, has been crafting precision weather instruments since 1939.
